Motorcraft 2150 carburetor jets prices guide list

Motorcraft 2150 jet size chart. 2150 motorcraft carb.

I going to start referring to these carbs as MC2100/2150s. Ford 4100 carburetors. * Ford 2150 carburetors....see more Part Number2414-076 Displaying 1 to 38 (of 38 products) I found the flow rates for MC2100/2150 2 barrels. Should I just keep plugging away? Easy to tune with jets and power valves. So these flow numbers do not equate to 4V flow. * Ford 2150 carburetors. It's a very simple vacuum secondary design, with fuel bowls in the carb body like an AFB. My list may not cover all sizes of these carbs. That is because the size and style and placement of the venturi booster which fits in the middle of the venturi can vary greatly from model to model. Then theres guys like FTF (as a SINGLE example- there are many others, the "Peenemunde 6 banger Brain Trust"- the rocket scientists- who lay out comprehensive chunks of info that all can draw from. When we're done with this post, it would be cool to have it in the FAQ. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-066 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. In example, a Weber 32/36 has venturies of 26mm/27mm. He said it worked great, but he could not remember how it was configured. Let's do a little 'myth busting' about MC carbs while we're on this topic. Only one person I've talked to says they've used a 32/36 on a 300. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-049 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. What's our focus here? Do the moderators do this, or can anyone just do it? * Ford...see more Part Number2414-055 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. When we're done with this post, it would be cool to have it in the FAQ. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-065 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. I've also seen one that was described as a .89. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-048 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. went to the website but couldnt find the carb info- can you post the link?? * Ford...see more Part Number2414-069 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-042 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. This info is often sought after. Bigger ones give less airflow and stronger signal and smaller ones promote greater airflow at the expense of signal strength, in general. Done. The bores and butterflies are the same. I posted it in the FAQ Bret. I pieced together all I could, and got great answers to my questions, & now have a great runnin truck. Use 'Motorcraft 2100/2150' as the key word. These are similar to metering rods except they work in reverse to control part throttle air/fuel mixtures more closely, operating inside the air bleed wells to regulate the fuel emulsion at part throttle conditions. I'm going to edit the list and add millimeter equivalents, just so we can sort of compare them to 'foreign' carbs, like the Weber. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-070 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. All Edelbrocks are Carter designs.) My comment regarding variance within the same make/model/venturi size was in reference to Motorcraft carbs. I've also run across flow bench results for the MC4100/4300 4Vs. These carbs are interesting. I hope to exclude other carbs for now, because I have excellent books dedicated to Holleys, Carters, and Webers. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-071 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. I don't think they use metering rods. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-046 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. Remember that venturi size is not the same as bore size. I'd love to see a thread on various carb flow rates stickied. THE FRENCHTOWN FLYER":2zu6aq5 said: Thanks for the info. I'm also interested in compiling information regarding actual venturi sizes of all makes of carbs. It should be on the FAQ post above. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-038 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. Ford 2100 carburetors. I can't quite get my mind around this. I'm also aware that certain models of the Weber are tuned, in part, by selecting the proper booster. So- the focus is codifying & making available the sum total of 240/300 knowledge. Ford 1101 carburetors. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-064 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-057 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. * Ford 4300...see more Part Number2414-039 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-051 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. We don't want the thread to become too convoluted though. Remember that four barrels are flowed at 1.5 "hg. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-041 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. went to the website but couldnt find the carb info- can you post the link?? 0.98 = 190 CFM 1.01 = 240 CFM 1.02 = 245 CFM 1.08 = 287 CFM 1.14 = 300 CFM 1.21 = 351 CFM 1.23 = 356 CFM 1.33 = 424 CFM In order to compare these carbs to 'metric' carbs, here is a conversion list. I'm behind this 100%. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-059 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. The MC2100/2150 carbs have synchronous butterflies, just like the Weber 38/38 DGS carbs. I like the idea of a thread that compares and contrasts carbs across the board. This information comes from CJOFFROAD.COM. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-044 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. I saw a MC2150 on Ebay that was listed as a 1.38. Keep in mind that flow rates can actually vary somewhat between carbs of the same model and same ventri size. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-061 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. Theres fellas like me who pick others brains, and try to shine some light and not muddy the waters too much. I just meant that, apparently, identical carbs can max out a little different. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-040 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-058 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. I appreciate everyone's help. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-053 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-062 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. In Brets collection of 2100 Facks, he might include: "Junior Rocketeer Mutt reports much better off idle & low speed performance if vacuum advance is run off idle port. He thinks also this will boost mpg in around town driving. Here goes myth number two: Some people claim that certain models of the MC2150 have "altitude compensators". Wack away, Sir..... Maybe someday I'll understand. I looked at the bench test results from four different MC4100s, all with 1.14 venturies. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-072 Ford Main Metering Jet - .073 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-045 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. (The AFB and the AVS were designed by Carter. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-074 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. A tri-power using 3 of these 190s equals a 404 cfm four barrel. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-063 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. Excellent point! Myth number one was that MC2150s don't have metering rods. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-047 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. This means the largest MC2100/2150, the 1.33 (at 424 CFM) is equal to a 598 CFM four barrel. I'll try to post a link; I'm learning 'computer' very slowly. Keep in mind that flow rates can actually vary somewhat between carbs of the same model and same venturi size. It seems to be more common nomenclature. Also, I still don't understand how a Weber 32/36 is too small for the big six. * Ford 2150 carburetors....see more Part Number2414-073 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. Thx.... I'm not saying it's not. Should I just keep plugging away? I'll assist in editing my posts on this thread to make it more coherent. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-068 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. Stuff my carb manuals might not cover. THE FRENCHTOWN FLYER":1yvcfv3 said: Remember that four barrels are flowed at 1.5 "hg. Alternatively a thread that collects info from this and other similar threads would do the job. So, for example, a 190 2V would be equivalent to a 135 4V. The 1.08 venturi MC4100 puts out 441 cfm at 1.5"Hg. That would be excellent for alot of 300 applications. To convert divide by 1.41. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-067 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. 2150s use metering rods (aka "baseball bats") in the air bleeds. Bigger ones give less airflow and stronger signal and smaller ones promote greater airflow at the expense of signal strength, in general./i I know the difference between the 500 CFM AFB and the 600 CFM AFB is just the primary booster. That site will allow guests/visitors to run searches. This is based on 15 plus k miles w/ vac from manifold, & 10 miles with it put right". * Ford...see more Part Number2414-052 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-054 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. Thanks again. That website has a ton of information on these carbs. Bret, you are exemplary. They all presumably had the same size boosters, because as far as I know, there aren't any different ones available. I want to focus on the MC2100/2150 for now, because there is much conflicting information on the internet regarding these carbs. One more comment: As a matter of fact, I don't think the MC2150's use metering rods, either. 2V 2100/2150 at 3"Hg. Venturi size listed first. This one, perhaps retitled to something a bit more general, would be a terrific start for that. THE FRENCHTOWN FLYER":2y4xrp53 said: That is because the size and style and placement of the venturi booster which fits in the middle of the venturi can vary greatly from model to model. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-050 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. It looks to me like these things are actually bi-metallic idle boosters, designed to increase idle speed when the carb reaches a designated temperature. Having a wealth of data on the 2100/2150 in one place is a great addition to an exemplary layman gearhead website. The 500 has a pair of larger primary boosters. Looks like they do. Maybe I should post a new topic for each MC2100/2150 question. Booster effect was a good addition to this thread. Displaying 1 to 38 (of 38 products) Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. As a matter of fact, I don't think the MC2150's use metering rods, either. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-056 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. When I found this site I had a woefully inadequate 80 van. * Ford...see more Part Number2414-043 Fits: Ford 1100 carburetors. 2100s don't use metering rods. The guys who havespent SO much time learning the ins & outs of our favored 6's are as generous with thier knowledge as one could be. I wish someone would write a manual for the Motorcraft carbs. Max flow varied about 60 CFM between these carbs. Also flow rate break downs for 4 barrel carbs, in example, the 400 CFM AFB flows 200 primary/200 secondary, the 500 CFM AFB flows 220/280, etc. BIIIIIG improvement running the carb advance off the timed port in the carb, rather than the manifold.
